S. F. TALKS AID FOR PENINSULA CRASH VICTIMS

Again Requests Mayor To Discuss Matter With San Mateans

Spurred again by the deaths of two San Francisco women, the San Francisco Board of Supervisors Tuesday instructed Mayor Angelo Rossi for the second time to confer with the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors to determine upon a policy of aiding highway victims.

A previous conference came to naught when San Francisco refused to send its ambulances into San Mateo county, and refused to receive San Franciscans off San Mateo county ambulances.

Supervisor Thomas P. Garrity of San Francisco, deploring the ambulance delay which cut off any chance that Mrs. Ida Brickell or Mrs. Frederick Snook could be saved from death Sunday, declared that the board of health of San Francisco should be compelled to send the ambulances across the line to help San Francisco's injured.

Supervisor Franck Havenner also declared that the San Francisco board's responsibility for the lives of San Franciscans does not stop at the county line.

Anticipating the board's order in the matter, Dr. John C. Geiger, San Francisco health officer, replied:

"When telephone calls for ambulance service for relief of persons outside the county limits are received, employes receiving these calls must communicate with Chief Surgeon Edmund Butler, Assistant Chief Surgeon G. K. Rhodes, or Chief Steward James O'Dea for definite instructions. Moreover, if these persons are not immediately available, they must take up the final disposition with the health officer or the assistant health officer."

An "error in judgment was made in not notifying the chief surgeon or the health officer" when the Park Emergency staff was asked to go to the accident Sunday, Dr. Geiger said.

"That the persons were supposedly dead and beyond aid is beside the point," he asserted. "It is illegal to go over the county line but the humanitarian instinct should predominate."

Constable S. A. Landini of Colma reported that he would take up the ambulance delay matter with the new San Mateo County Grand Jury.

USE OF SEALS ON PACKAGES URGED

SAN MATEO, Dec. 3.—Women of San Mateo county are asked to use Christmas Seals sold by the San Mateo County Association for Prevention of Tuberculosis, on all of their holiday packages and mail, in a message issued today by Mrs. Harry Dana, president of the association.

"Always, we use some sort of stickers for Christmas on packages and letters, why not use the Christmas Health Seals?" asks Mrs. Dana. "They are attractive and at a penny each are as inexpensive as any stamps that might be bought.

"In this county, the receipts from the sale of seals are used for the maintenance of the San Mateo Preventorium where there are beds for 14 little boys and 14 little girls who otherwise might be victims of tuberculosis."

DISTRIBUTION OF ESTATE DELAYED BY SUPREME COURT

Distribution of $1,000,000 income to the two Hillsborough grandchildren of James McDonald, former foreign representative of the Standard Oil Company, have be en denied by the United States Supreme Court.

The high court upheld the District of Columbia courts, denying the Bank of America of California a review of the pleading. The bank sought the right to distribute the $1,000,000 income from the estate to the grandchildren at this time, but the high court interpreted McDonald's will to provide that no income was to be paid the youths until the eldest was 30.

The children's share of the estate was valued at $2,005,000 in 1929, and on that date the accumulated income was $1,161,017.

The McDonald grandchildren now live with their mother, Mrs. John J. Martin of 986 Baileyana road, Hillsborough. Martin is an artist and received half of the estate and the income on the death of Martin Sr., who spent most of his life in London.

BELLE MONTI TRACT WANTS MORE LIGHTS

Council Reduces Tax On 3 Sanitariums; Other Business

BELMONT, Dec. 3.—Requesting street lights throughout the Belle Monti tract, a petition signed by 50 residents and property owners was filed with the city council here last night. After endorsing the proposal, the council ordered the petition sent to the board of supervisors, which has jurisdiction over the lights.

On protest of S. M. St. John, three of the four sanitariums in Belmont were granted reductions in city licenses. The Nerve Rest Sanitarium, represented by St. John, and the Twin Pines Sanitarium, won reductions from $50 to $25; the Alexander Sanitarium will hereafter pay $35 instead of $50, and the California Sanitarium will continue to pay $50. The ratings are based on the number of beds.

Bills against the city totaling $400 were ordered paid.

A circular from the San Mateo County Employment Committee was read at the meeting, asking the assistance of the Ravenswood district in finding work for unemployed men and women in the county. Copies of this circular, together with cards to be filled in with names and telephone numbers of persons having work to offer, will be distributed soon.

Sixteen families have been supplied with clothing in the district, Mrs. A. E. Albertson reported, and three baskets of food were given prior to Thanksgiving.

Flood Contest Settlement In Offing, Rumor

Jurist Allows Delay For Changes In Transcript

Reports that a settlement is imminent between the recognized James L. Flood heirs and Mrs. Constance May Gavin of Los Angeles, who claims to be an illegitimate daughter of Mr. Flood, were heard about the courthouse in Redwood City Thursday.

Attorney Albert Mansfield, who was one of the counsel for Mrs. Gavin, said he had heard nothing of the reported settlement.

Some support was seen to the rumor, however, when a continuance was granted on the settlement of the transcript in the Flood case, which was up before Superior Judge George H. Buck today. It was said that attorneys for the Flood estate sought to make certain changes in the reporter's record before the transcript is approved and sent to the district court of appeal.

The appeal was to be taken on Judge Buck's refusal to grant Mrs. Gavin a new trial, following the directing of the verdict by him against the Los Angeles claimant during the will contest in July and August.

Mrs. Gavin was represented in court by Attorneys John Taaffe and Maxwell McNutt, and the Flood estate by Attorney Hall C. Ross.

Flood, who died in 1926, left an estate estimated at amounts between $9,000,000 and $18,000,000. He made no provision for Mrs. Gavin, who as a child, was the pet of the millionaire's household near Los Gatos and San Francisco.

ADOLPH UHL TO URGE S. F. SITE FOR NEW JAIL

City's Plea For S. M. County Site Is Due Again Monday

Adolph Uhl, back in the San Francisco spotlight for the first time since the recent mayoralty fight which he lost to Angelo Rossi, will fight the attempts to locate San Francisco's new jail in San Mateo county, it was indicated Wednesday.

The plea to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors to allow San Francisco to build a jail in this county will be renewed Monday. It is understood that San Francisco will again ask the right to build the jail on the Casinelli ranch near Half Moon Bay, a site which was abandoned in favor of the Sneath ranch at San Bruno.

Two attempts to have the jail located in San Bruno failed before the local board, and a lull in the jail site plea then resulted while it became an issue in the San Francisco campaign for sheriff, which resulted in the re-election of William J. Fitzgerald.

Uhl will recommend a jail site within San Francisco in the Bayview district at the foot of Gilman street, it is said. San Francisco desires a large ranch site so that the prisoners may be kept at gainful occupations during their imprisonment.

ADOPTED DAUGHTER CUT OFF IN WILL

On the ground that "her conduct utterly forfeited all claims," Mrs. Josephine Salz Kosterman of Burlingame, an adopted daughter, was cut off with $1 in the will of Joseph W. Salz, wealthy wool merchant, who died November 16.

Salz' will leaves a like amount to his son, Joseph W. Salz, and gives the entire estate valued considerably in excess of $10,000 to the widow, Mrs. Esther Naomi Salz.

NEW OYSTER FROM JAPAN NOW GROWN IN MONTEREY BAY

WATSONVILLE. — The growing of a new species of Pacific ocean oysters for United States markets has been started successfully on an extensive scale in Elkhorn slough on Monterey bay, near here.

A certificate from the California State Board of Health for operation of the beds by West Coast Oyster Farms., Ltd., revealed the inauguration of the new industry.

Originators of the new Pacific coast oyster growing project declare the product of the Elkhorn Slough beds will be entirely new to American markets. The seed of the new oysters was transplanted from Japan.

In his report to the state department of public health, C. G Gillespie, chief of the California Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, declared: "This proposition has the making of the largest oyster beds so far certified by us. When developed to the fullest extent, it is expected that the proposition will represent a yearly business of about $7,500,000."

A Santa Cruz, California, market first displayed the product of the Elkhorn beds. Several ropes, on which large oysters had grown to maturity in the fashion in use at Elkhorn were displayed on the municipal pier and attracted unusual attention.

SAN JOSE PORT PROJECT WINS FEDERAL FAVOR

Gov't Aid Contingent Upon District's Co-Operation

San Jose's plans to develop a deep water harbor at Alviso, some 12 miles north of the city, have won recognition of the district army engineer and have been forwarded to Congress for consideration of federal aid.

Col. Thomas M. Robbins, United States Army engineer of San Francisco, approved the project, placing the proposal in the mail Monday. The fact that he did not notify officers of the San Jose Deep Water Port Association of his rejection of their plans evidenced his approval, San Jose port leaders declared.

If his report had been adverse, the army engineering department procedure would call for him to notify the port boosters, it was said.

San Jose is asking $750,000 for the initial work on its port project. It is seeking a channel of 27 to 30 feet. A three-year campaign has been underway for a port there, but the project has been talked of for 20 years.

Wilbur F. Henning, president of the port association, apprised of the favorable ruling, said:

"Federal appropriation will be contingent upon the local district erecting the necessary wharves, warehouses and other facilities of a first-class port capable of handling from the outset cargoes amounting to at least 1,000,000 tons a year, discharged and taken on board by deep-sea ships. This support will be given by local interests without doubt when it is clearly understood by the people that the port will not only pay its own way, but will put us in line for receiving industries of vast magnitude; in other words, that we will be in line to compete with other communities in securing industries that require deep-water shipping and rail."

BLD'G TO DATE HITS $696,996

NEGLECT CHARGED

Alleging willful neglect, Mrs. Bernice Z. Castro has asked a divorce from Henry G. Castro in a complaint on file with County Clerk Elmore B. Hinman. They were married in Redwood City June 25, 1927, and separated here on November 9.

Menlo Park

County Clerk E. B. Hinman at Redwood City, on Tuesday, received the notice of intention to marry from John E. Naulty, 24, Presidio, Monterey, and Mary F. Cline, 20, 1200 San Mateo avenue, Menlo Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Stebbin, nee Flood, and their young daughter, arrived in San Francisco last week from New York. Before returning east they will spend a few days at the Flood estate here.

P. J. McGlone has purchased the holding of the late Peter Smith on Doyle street, for $1250. The property consists of a house and lot and several large oak trees. Mrs. McGlone is to improve the property.

Mrs. Ida M. Brickell, who met her death last Sunday morning in an automobile accident on the Skyline Boulevard, was widely known in this community. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bracchi, pioneers of Mayfield. Mrs. Brickell was born there and grew to womanhood, and was admired by all. In her youth she married Mr. John C. Brickell, capitalist and developer of the Sea Cliff district, San Francisco. At his death, some few years ago, she was bequeathed the beautiful home of the couple and was given cash in the sum of $175,000. Mrs. Brickell, after the death of her husband, lived quietly in her apartment, making week-end trips to her country home in La Honda. The deceased was a sister-in-law of Mrs. Stuart Middlemas and Mrs. W. H. Linforth of Menlo Park.

A five-foot sidewalk is being constructed in front of the grammar school property by the trustees. The improvement is timely and much in need. It is to be regretted that the sidewalk could not be extended both ways, to connect with Glenwood and Oak Grove avenues. The cost to the abutting property owners would be a trivial matter — and what a benefit it would be to the children who are to travel over the muddy walks in winter.

The Busy Bee Grocery Store was sold by the board of trade, this week, to a San Francisco merchant for $920. At one time the place did a large volume of business. The store biulding belongs to the Associated Oil and it is rumored that the ancient structure is to be wrecked to make room for a large building.

Work on Crane avenue, Johnson street and University Drive, and other adjoining streets, is nearing completion, and soon the residents in that locality will enjoy nice sidewalks and well-paved streets. Mr. Mehl, the efficient city engineer, declares the work is being splendidly performed and will be a credit to that portion of our city.

Marren (Kip) Morey has returned from his trip to Arizona and New Orleans, where he went with the Santa Clara football team which won two games, one at Arizona and the other at New Orleans. In a practice game en route, Moorey had his ankle wrenched, and was prevented from participating in the contests. Morey is a plucky player and would have given a good account of himself had he been in the games. He will be on crutches for some weeks, but will be able to attend his classes at Santa Clara.

Hans Agard, on Wednesday morning, was the victim of an automobile accident, on the corner of Santa Cruz avenue and the highway. He was crossing the street when he was run into by a car driven by Mrs. R. E. Brown. Agard was struck by the fender and thrown to the sidewalk, sustaining a scalp wound and abrasions of the skin, on the shins and shoulders. He was removed to his home, where he is resting comfortably. There will be no serious results from the accident.

Father Thomas J. Kennedy last week united in marriage Miss Margaret Hand and Charles Houck, both of Palo Alto. They are graduates of Sequoia Union High School. The couple will reside in the college city.

J. E. Cooper, former service station proprietor and used car dealer of Menlo Park, recently joined forces with Lloyd Douglas, Menlo Park building contractor, and both will operate the Redwood Car Market at Redwood City.

Officer Belcourt arrested Lowe Cole, Wednesday, for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Cole said he came from Santa Cruz, and that he had taken two drinks of whiskey given him by a tramp, who had been riding with him. Cole was let go on furnishing bail and agreeing to appear in court next Tuesday.

The Menlo Park Planning Commission met recently to receive a petition from many residents of Oak Grove avenue, asking that the avnue be extended through the Flood estate, to connect with the Bayshore Highway. The document was ordered filed and the commission went on record as favoring an outlet to the new thoroughfare. Atherton has a similar problem to wrestle with, and is now engaged in examining the possibilities of two different connections with the Bayshore Highway. George A. Kneese is making the investigation.

Miss Elaine Blanchard, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Joseph Blanchard, the local merchant, was severely injured in an automobile accident at Palo Alto last Sunday.

On leaving the city and nearing the highway she was run into by another car going east. Miss Blanchard was badly cut by flying glass from the windshield and also sustained bruises about her face and head. The young lady was taken to the Palo Alto hospital where she is still confined. Up until a short time ago Miss Blanchard was the principal of the Belmont grammar school. She is now teaching in the San Jose school department.

Owing to the efforts of the police department and Judge Hoss, there has been less unemployment in this locality during the past ten days, than for some time past. The matter is well in hand and little actual suffering is manifested.

History repeats itself. The people are going through a period of depression experienced in 1877-78, when the Comstock mines stopped paying their monthly dividends of more than a million dollars a month, a big portion of which found its way into San Francisco. The stock market crashed and then as now—men who were wealthy found themselves penniless. About that time J. C. Flood, who made fifty millions in the Comstock, purchased large holdings in this community, consisting of more than a thousand acres.

In order to relieve the unemployment situation, Flood conceived the idea of planting cypress trees on his property, particularly on that portion below the Bay Road. Hundreds of men from Redwood City and from Menlo Park were employed digging holes, at a wage of $2 a day. Mr. Flood was a philanthropist and he sought this means of putting men to work.

Hundreds of these trees have long since decayed and been dug up, but there are still a vast number of them left to testify to the generosity and goodness of the Bonanza king, who spent thousands of dollars that men might eat. It is too bad that we have no such men today that might help relieve the situation.

O'CONNOR PROPERTY TO BE SOLD.

The O'Connor property, consisting of two large lots, on Middlefield Road, Redwood City, with improvements thereon, will be sold at a bargain on the 22nd day of December, 1931. NEW JUVENILE JUDGE IS GREAT COUNCILOR FOR ERRING YOUTH

The juvenile court that was organized and presided over with marked efficiency for many years, was recently placed in the hands of Judge Franklin Swart. He is showing the same tenderness and consideration as Judge Geo. H. Buck showed, in handling the youngsters that come before him.

His fatherly advise and kind consideration of the boys and girls needing chastizing, have made a deep impression upon those who have watched the new judge. He has shown great wisdom in the disposition of the cases before him, requiring judgment and consideration. He is never harsh, giving the juveniles a full hearing, and oftentimes using extreme tact and tenderness in dealing with the shortcomings of the young, whose environment is often the cause of their petty crimes.

Whatever the cause the people may rest assured that these juvenile matters of the county are in good hands when heard by Judge Franklin Swart.

We Hope He's Mistaken

The Oldest Inhabitant says we shall not have much rain this winter. Says he has noticed for the last hundred years or more, that when there is considerable fog, plenty of white frost and cold weather for days at a time—all of which we have had and are having—it has never rained much in such a winter as that.

We all hope the Oldest Inhabitant is mistaken.

Farm Women, Guided by U. C. Specialists Making Own Clothes

California farm women, whose normal purchasing power has been depleted because of low prices of farm products, are keeping right up to modern styles in clothes through their own initiative and labor. Eighteen counties, according to Harriet G. Eddy, assistant professor of agricultural extension and state leader of home demonstration agents in the College of Agriculture, University of California, have reported meetings and projects on hats.

Farm women in sixteen of these counties, according to Miss Eddy, have made 2,256 new hats out of old ones. The average cost of trimming these hats was less than 30 cents. Conservatively speaking, [illegible] hats could not be duplicated [illegible]

Farm center groups of women have also done their own dry cleaning of hats and clothes. One group cleaned eighteen hats at a cost of slightly less than one dollar. Another farm center group purchased an electric hat block with four crowns for the use of the community. In Butte county a man's tengallon hat was remodelled for the third time.

Meetings for discussing made-over garments have been held in Kern, Madera, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, King, Riverside, and Santa Cruz counties. Hosiery "clinics" have been conducted at the farm centers of Yolo county. Other subjects discussed by home demonstration agents included dyeing and pressing, selection of shoes, making of underwear, dress-making, patchwork, and better buying.

Pacific Relations Institute Represents Peace Progress In Far East, Says Lecturer

"The recent Pacific relations conference and the mere fact that it was held are evidence enough of its value, prove it practical and possible for civilized men to meet for discussion even in troublesome times."

These were the opinions expressed by Prof. Joseph P. Chamberlain of Columbia University in a talk at the Stanford Assembly Hall last night on the Institute of Pacific Relations, from whose fourth biennial conference at Shanghai he has just returned.

The fact that despite the Manchurian dispute crisis the Japanese and Chinese delegates took grave personal risks and jeopardized their reputation and influence in their own countries to participate in the conference indicates that there are groups in both China and Japan broad enough to bridge the gap of feeling between the two countries and attempt to build a better sentiment, according to Professor Chamberlain. The speaker pointed out that Dr. Hu Shih of China, president of the conference, declared at the opening of the meeting that the conference showed it was not impossible to straighten out the feeling against Japan.

For some time prior to the meeting it had looked as if it would be impossible to hold the conference, according to Professor Chamberlain, because the Manchurian situation could not be avoided and it would have been a confession of weakness and failure.

"There could not have been a stronger testimony of faith in the theory of the conference than that given by the Japanese members, who came to China for the discussions at the height of the feeling over Manchuria," he declared. "There was no attempt to hide behind polite phrases. There was no special round-table discussion on Manchuria but whenever the situation came up it was faced fully."

Besides the discussions at the regular sessions, according to Professor Chamberlain, there were private discussions between the Chinese and Japanese.

"Each side found that it didn't know all about the Manchurian difficulty, and came to see some of the other's point of view," he asserted. In his opinion the conference constituted a great advance to the free discussion of serious problems.

In its essence Professor Chamberlain declared the Manchurian situation resulted from the lack of regular means of settling disputes over claims for damaged goods and by passengers on the Japanese-controlled railway before they became diplomatic problems and from competition between railways for Manchurian business.

Another important question threshed out at the conference was the navigation of Chinese rivers by foreign vessels. A special conference was arranged at which representatives of the foreign shipping interests were present. These interests, Professor Chamberlain declared, felt it important for the institute to get their point of view.

The organization and working of the Institute of Pacific Relations were explained by Professor Chamberlain. Much preparatory research study are done between the biennial conferences, which he declared were valuable because of the criticism of material by other nationalities and because the different points of view improved knowledge and understanding.

"The work of the institute is to see problems in advance and work out and discuss the facts concerning them," the lecturer declared. Much fact material is provided which may be of use to statesmen. At the first conference there was a great lack of facts for use in the discussion; each nation knew only its own conditions, according to Professor Chamberlain.

Among the important studies made since is one concerning food and the pressure of population and land utilization. An important by-product of such studies, Chamberlain asserted, is that for the first time China has been getting the facts concerning its own agricultural and industrial problems. "It is making them alive," he said, "to their own conditions and starting a movement for possible improvement."

Professor Chamberlain paid tribute to the part played by Stanford in the institute through its professors and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, who was active in its founding.

The speaker last night was introduced by Acting President Robert E. Swain of the university.

UP AND DOWN THE STATE

AMERICA IS STILL DRY

Attempts are still being made in wet centers to exploit prohibition as a political issue at the congressional election next year. In spite of all their inspired straw votes and their few trivial gains in some large cities the country is still fundamentally as dry today as it was when strong drink was so overwhelmingly outlawed ten years ago.

One of the best nationally known writers on American politics has just made a tour of the country from Boston to San Francisco to discover the general sentiment of the voters on the big questions likely to affect the popular verdict next November. He sees little foundation for the wet hopes so loudly proclaimed by a certain section of the eastern press. A few of the larger cities will go wet, but the rural vote is overwhelmingly dry and this will decide the matter in Congress. Indeed, he adds that the next Congress is as likely to legalize 4 per cent—or even 2½ per cent—beer as it is to permit the dispensing of whisky over soft-drink counters.

There are plenty of other signs on the moral and economic side of the eighteenth amendment to corroborate the opinion of this political expert.

The report of the Commission on Law Enforcement was not only dry but it thoroughly unpeld the president. Then the United States supreme court reversed the childish decision of Judge Clark of New Jersey on the constitutionality of the eighteenth amendment.

Repeated measures were introduced into Congress to wear down the drys and worry the administration. Congress did stop talking long enough to defeat all of them. The legislatures of nineteen states completely disiccated every piece of wet legislation introduced.

On top of this National Director of Prohibition Woodcock reports the most successful year of enforcement. This accounts for the loud squawks of the wets.

The Allied Forces, a new temperance agency, was born. The heckling of the wets drove the drys to complete unity. The board of strategy of all the national temperance and prohibition organizations began 15,000 mass meetings and put a crimp into damp publicity. The young prohibition movement completely surprised the Young Crusaders for size and momentum. Young college and church people from 43 different denominations called 3,000 conferences. The Crusaders have not been crusading as lively since. Reversal of the wet offensive was brought about by a public challenge of August Busch.

So many claims were made about women drinking, that the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Parent-Teacher Association rose up en masse and reaffirmed their loyalty to the prohibition amendment. The National Education Association took similar action. An attempt to stampede the farmers by promising that beer would take up the slack of overproduction of grains was straightway repudiated by the Grange, the national farmers' organization. That was a solar plexus.

Every great denominational conference among the churches of the country save two, stood by the dry guns. A foundation gathered facts that show the collapse of government control in Canada as a temperance measure. "The Wet Parade," the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" of prohibition, gives a real parade of lawlessness and conspiracy of nullification.

The number of great newspapers giving fair presentation of dry news has been heartening.

The year has brought little comfort to the wets. They have been met at every angle. Attempts to discredit the president have resulted in the country tightening up its belt for action.

If results of the wet-dry controversy in 1932 depend upon the progress made during the past ten months, substantial victory for national prohibition is foreshadowed. In the record of the past year there has been a remarkable quickening of activities on the part of every dry organization in the country. Politically the future of this sweeping temperance legislation is safe.

All that remains is to carry it educationally to those congested areas where its moral and economic advantages have not yet been sufficiently understood. That is really the big task ahead of those anxious for the permanent establishment of a sober America.—Los Angeles Times.

NEW USE FOR ALARM CLOCK

Down at Alameda they are using alarm clocks to protect the gold fish in the city park. A colony of black-crowned night herons rave been raiding the fish ponds. These birds feed at night and roost in daytime. They had been resting in a tree near the ponds. A large number of alarm clocks were placed in the tree, set to go off at half hour intervals between 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. The birds are thus deprived of their slumber. All herons but one pair have deserted the neighborhood, it was said yesterday. These stubborn birds are showing signs of weakness from lack of repose and are expected to give up the battle soon.

It is suggested that fruit growers adopt this scheme for protection of their crops in season. If all these nerve-racking instruments of early morning torture were used to decorate trees it would be a great break for the hired man.—Santa Rosa Press-Democrat.

ECUADOR HATS

We cannot but sympathize with the cry that is going up from Ecuador, because of the fame the Panama hats have won.

Many persons have known that the Panama hats were not produced in Panama, only at one time sold through Panama lines of trade. But just the same, we keep on calling these spiffy articles of summer wear "Panama."

Now a nation-wide organization has been formed, in the republic on the Equator, to boost the home traffic under a home name. Whether the name it has at home, the "sombrero de jipijapa" or sometimes as the "sombrero de paja toquilla," will sit well on Yankee tongues, is a question.—Fresno Republican.

SOME NEW LIGHT ON THE WALKER VISIT

Now it comes out! Mayor Walker of New York is asking Governor Rolph to pardon Mooney—there is no talk about Billings, by the way—because the Communists may make trouble if he doesn't.

In other words, the State of California is being asked to lie down in the dust and play dead for fear of what a handful of unnamed persons, of unspecified number and residence, may do in unspecified localities if it doesn't.

Would that not be glorious? Wouldn't Californians be proud of their state if 't did that? Would it not be an inspiring spectacle if a great state said in effect: Because there is a possibility that some Communists somewhere may do something unpleasant we are going to set aside the verdict of our highest court and the decision of three governors, and let a dynamiter out of prison.

If California were to do that it might just as well go the whole hog, secede from the union, turn its government over to the Communists under the direction of Moscow and the third internationale, erect a statue of Lenin the Liberator in every public square, and make Tom Mooney deputy commissar in charge of industrial relations.

For what Walker is suggesting is nothing less than complete abdication of California's sovereignty in the fact of a threat that hasn't even been made, and would be of not the slightest consequence if it were made.

No more asinine proposal was ever made public by a public man. Just what is this fellow Walker, anyway? Apparently his conception of what constitutes the dignity of a state is on a par with his notion of what consitutes his own.—Sacramento Bee.

DISCOUNTED

Senator Johnson is right, basically, in his call for openness in foreign diplomacy.

If there is any trouble about it, in practice, Senator Johnson should be able to check back over his own relation to public affairs to know why.

If Secretary Stimson of the United States, or Laval of France, or Grandi of Italy would not like their opinions, as exchanged with the statesmen they correspond with, made public until they and their correspondents have reached some ground of common understanding, is this surprising?

If Mr. Stimson, for instance, could know that his ideas about the relation of one nation to another could be placed before the American people and not be attacked bitterly, by Senator Johnson, because Johnson does not like Hoover, then he could feel that frankness, in advance of formalized statements, would be possible.

When Senator Johnson was Governor Johnson of California did he tell the entire people of California what his political proposals were before he had "lined up" his own friends in support of them prior to legislative action?.

The trouble with a critical attitude like that of Johnson is that his sympathizers and his enemies alike know that his dislike of Hoover colors equally every attitude he takes on national or international matters.

So, it colors his comments on Stimson's relation to the Japanese invasion of Manchuria, even though Johnson may be right in his remarks on open diplomacy.—Fresno Republican.

RABBIT BY ANY OTHER NAME

The rabbit is not credited with much intelligence, but he certainly is the most versatile of all living creatures. No other animal can grow so many kinds of fur. The credit, however, belongs to human beings who are smart enough by the use of dyes and processing to make the rabbit's skin over into whatever kind of fur is desired.

Rabbit breeders are now working to eliminate the necessity of dyeing to a large extent by propagating animals with a greater variety of fur colors. A new breed of bunny has been developed with fur said to have the exact color and texture of the beaver. It has taken 12 years to develop this breed, it is said. That at least is a break for the beaver.

Rabbit breeders are also busy developing other strains and we may soon see squirrel, chipmunk, ermine, and other furs, all in their natural state and all taken from the backs of rabbits. A couple of years ago it looked like the rabbit business was going to be overdone. Just now it looks like business is going to be good. — Santa Rosa Press-Democrat.

PERFERVID VANDALISM

There has been so much of American vandalism, in raiding Old World points to satisfy the curiosity of the New, that the instance of the taking of the birthplace of Junipero Serra from Mallorca, will porbably be regarded as trivial.

But we can hope that this whole "junkery" a form of respect for history will be outgrown.

What would we, in California, think of a movement to take the Mission Dolores, at San Francisco, apart, brick by brick, and reestablish it in New York or Washington or Chicago, merely because there were enough wealthy men with some sort of fervid curiosity, there, to desire this or other missions as museum pieces?

As for the Serra birthplace, surely, if the form of the house is interesting in itself, a replica could be made of it, that would satisfy. And if respect for the "realties" of Serra's life is what is important then some steps could be taken to preserve the house in its original location, with protection from the local authorities and funds supplied from the state in which Serra did his great service?—Fresno Republican.

ADVICE TO NEWCOMERS

The magazines are full of advice to folks going somewhere—"Advice to a Frenchman Going to America" or advice to "Innocents Abroad." So it may not be out of place to give advice to easterners coming to California.

Bring a few wraps with you. This semitropic climate is not as enervating as some of the licked footballists from the East would have you believe. Then we always sleep under blankets. If you do not want to, you do not have to sleep under blankets; but we do it to keep warm.

Upon arriving in Los Angeles, if after 10 p. m., do not race over to Hollywood to see them throwing wild parties. You are likely to find them in bed getting their beauty sleep.

Plan to stay long enough to get perspective. Giving us the "once over" is neither satisfactory to the tourist nor to us. The city limits of Los Angeles will not be found up near Seattle at all. We left about 1,000,000 inhabitants on the outside to furnish a respectable metropolitan district.

And no matter how much anyone fears lest he be taken for a tenderfoot, there need be no worry. We do not sell real estate to anyone who does not consent and most of our best fishers for suckers are up in San Quentin or on the way. We do not have any Wall street to house them in.—Los Angeles Times.

"JUST A BOWL OF CHERRIES"

Returning from South America, Colonel Lindbergh declares himself as disgusted with the red tape that retards international aviation. He says that in flying from Miami to Colombia and return he was compelled to sign his name to clearance papers 220 times. It is all very serious to him, and while what he says about red tape retarding aviation may be true, there is some room for the supposition that the colonel in this instance is lacking in a sense of humor. Perhaps he has never heard any of the radio tenors explain that "Life is just a bowl of cherries." The thing to do, they say, is just to live and laugh at it all.—Santa Barbara News.

POP'S COLUMN

Who knows lots about stamps? Postage stamps? What is it they call a stamp collector now? Philatelist? Pronounced fi-lat-e-list, with the accent on the lat, huh? All right, let's go! (Oh, yes; I know you have a dictionary, too). A good friend of this newspaper brought here a small collection the other day, saying that she didn't know anything about stamp values, and that some of the stamps in the collection might be valuable to a phi—er—to one of those persons. So, I nave the collection here, and if by chance there is somebody reading this who knows lots about stamps, or might like to have some of these, or all of them, I reckon a deal can be arranged. The lady who brought them here says she will dispose of them.

Speaking of collectors remainds me that we had a neighbor once who was a collector. He collected anything that he could carry away. He collected corn from a neighbor's corn crib one winter. The neighbor saw that somebody was collecting corn from his corn crib, but he couldn't catch him at it. Stayed up night after night with a mighty big double-barreled shotgun loaded with nails and dynamite, but the collector never came around when he was there. Then the neighbor went to bed and the collector came and carried away four bushels of corn from his corn crib. Then the neighbor went to town and bought a big steel trap and set it just inside the crib where the collector used to collect corn, and the next morning when the neighbor went out to feed his stock, the collector was standing there by the corn crib with one hand caught in that big steel trap. The neighbor spoke pleasantly to him, and acted like he thought it was the most natural thing in the world to see the collector standing there in the early morn, with one hand and arm inside the corn crib, and an empty grain bag lying at his feet. The neighbor went on about his task of feeding the stock, whistling around happily, paid no more attention to the collector. Got through feeding and started to the house. Came by the collector and said: "Well, Gormley," for that was the collector's name, "come on up to the house and have a bite of breakfast with us." Gormly said nothing. His face was furrowed with pain, because that big steel trap was gradually biting his hand off. "What! You don't want any breakfast?" said the neighbor. "Well, just excuse me then, will you, while I eat mine, and I'll be back after while and talk to you." So he went on and had his breakfast, and when he came back he had one of those old "blacksnake" whips, like you see the feller in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" whipping poor old Uncle Tom with. And he everlastingly whaled the daylights out of that collector. Then he released him from the steel trap and said: "Well, must you go now? Oh! Sorry you can't stay longer. Well, drop around any time. Always glad to see you." But the collector never went back there for any more corn. I never knew why. Probably had all of that particular kind of corn that he needed.

Here are some statistics—don't you just love statistics? Two thousand 8 hundred and 30-seven motor vehicle accidents, involving injury and death were reported to the California Highway Patrol for the month of September. These accidents caused injury to 3 thousand 9 hundred and 80-five persons, two hundred and 6-teen of whom died from such injuries. I thought you'd like to know this, especially if you drive a car and believe in "personal liberty," and so on.

A fool and his money generally look a lot alike—mighty little sense in one, and few cents in the other.

The lip stick is not a new thing; the old colored women in the South have used them for centuries; but down there they call them snuff dippers.

When I was a little feller and got a bad sore throat, I used to wrap a wollen stocking around my neck at night, and in the morning I would be all right again. Now, though, when anybody gets a sore throat, the doctors cut out his tonsils and charge him $50. Then, if he doesn't get well, the doctor says it is because he didn't have a lot more tonsils to cut out. Well, I don't know; seems to me tonsils were meant for something better than to be butchered to make a Aesculapian holiday.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS NOW! HELP STAMP OUT DISEASE IN YOUR COUNTY
CHRISTMAS SHOPPING TOUR
TUBERCULOSIS AND HEALTH ASSOCIATION

Just as the great postal service of the United States is supported mainly through the sale of two-cent stamps, similarly the important work of the Tuberculosis Association of Santa Clara county receives its whole support from the sale of Christmas seals at a penny each each Christmas time.

In Santa Clara county, 10,890 homes have received a packet of these seals as an opportunity to express the Christmas spirit by purchasing these seals to decorate packages and letters, but more important to contribute in this way to a year-round program of health conservation and building in a special field.

During the early weeks of all the Decembers for the last 25 years residents of this county have bought Christmas seals. In the beginning the seals were issued by the American Red Cross. Since 1919, they have been issued by the National Tuberculosis Association with which the county association is affiliated, and in addition to increasing attractiveness of design, they have always carried the double-barred cross of Lorraine which is a world-wide symbol of the far-flung battle against Tuberculosis.

America has led in the development of this method of providing resources for the fight, but in recent years other nations are using it in increasing numbers until this year 16 foreign countries are issuing similar seals of their own for a like purpose.

In Santa Clara county, the funds realized from the seal sale go directly into the support of a well-organized program of health education in the schools, the co-ordination of the work of the county tuberculosis clinics and the county school nurses, and needed food demonstrations and nutrition classes for parents of limited or no education.

In most homes, the seals will be one of the least expensive purchases made at Christmas time, but the purchase is, nonetheless, one of the best evidences of the Christmas spirit of bringing joy, health and happiness to others.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Sec. Agricultural Legislative Committee of California

California agriculture, when it confronts the next state legislature with a demand for reduction in taxes on farm property, can win its point if, coupled with its demand, it presents a reasonable and sound program for tax equalization.

But its success depends not only upon the reduction of the excessive burden now borne by the farm and real property generally. Tax inequalities which, more than any other factor, have dissipated farm profits, are today generally admitted, yet, to win an adjustment, the farmer must submit both the problem and its solution.

Groups which have escaped payment of their just share toward the upkeep of government must shoulder a fair proportion of the burden before the load on agriculture can be relieved. And hand in hand with a more equitable spreading of the tax load must come a determined effort to hold down governmental costs both local and state.

That, briefly stated, is the consensus of opinion of leaders in the statewide movement for a reorganized tax system.

Agriculture's great danger, in grappling with the situation, lies not so much in the possibility of failure to make known its need, but in the greater possibility of being stampeded or maneuvered into a supposed relief program which will merely pass back to the farmer, indirectly, the crushing tax load now borne directly.

The proposal of real estate interests and other groups, for example, that a sales tax be substituted to carry school costs—part of the burden which now bears heavily on agriculture—should be subjected to the most careful examination, for no proposal which cannot stand the closest scrutiny is worthy of consideration as a tax relief measure.

California farmers today, according to the October report of the United States Department of Agriculture, are paying 27 per cent above pre-war prices for most of the products which they must buy, while getting only 72 per cent of pre-war prices for the commodities which they must sell.

With this wide variance in his buying and selling prices, the farmer certainly cannot afford, no matter how desperate his need, to accept a compromise tax which will increase his costs of farm operation and family maintenance.

The fundamental weakness in the sales tax, as a general rule, is that it weighs most heavily on those least able to pay. This, of course, would not apply to certain forms of luxury tax, but even in this there is a danger which must not be overlooked. A tax once established is seldom revoked; it is more often extended and broadened! And what starts as a luxury tax in 1931 may easily become a tax on necessities in 1935.

Computations of federal tax experts reveal the amazing fact that more than 85 per cent of the farmer's net return, under present conditions, goes to payment of the overhead of government in its various branches.

This tremendous encroachment of government on farm income brings to the fore still another objection to the sales tax, or, for that matter, to any other form of indirect taxation.

SEQUOIA OPENS CAGE SEASON AGAINST LOWELL

RIVAL QUINTETS CLASH IN SCHOOL GYM TONIGHT

By EL THOMAS

Sequoia high school's heavyweight basketball season opens tonight when the Cherokee varsity quintet meets Lowell high school's championship five of San Francisco in the Sequoia gymnasium. The Sequoia 130s will meet the Lowell weight team in the preliminary game starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Just what possibilities the Cherokee quintet has this season have not been disclosed in the week or so of practice behind the Indians, including a six-quarter workout against the alumni last Friday.

Regarding Lowell, however, this much is true: three of the heavy scorers who helped Lowell defeat Sequoia by a score of 31 to 18 last year are in tomorrow night's starting lineup getting ready to carry Lowell to another A.A.A. championship for 1932. Hay, star center, scored seven points against Sequoia a year ago, and Conroy and Carney, forwards, contributed nine points between them.

Coach Frank Griffin of Sequoia has not named a starting lineup for the Cherokees, but he has all of the experienced material in the school from which to choose and his lineup will be the best that Sequoia can put on the court. "Griff" says that it may cost his team several defeats in preliminary games to find the right combination but that it should start to click before long.

From the alumni game it is apparent that a possible combination will be: Jim McGuire and Art Blasdel, forwards; Elbert Garcia, center, and Jens Bugge and Ed Matheson, guards. Leo LeRoy, who is not yet in shape for basketball after playing football up to a week ago, should give Garcia a strong race for the center position as soon as he gets into condition.

For the first time in the history of Sequoia basketball, the Cherokees are concentrating on the unlimited team. At least six players, including McGuire, Blasdel, Matheson, Garcia, Demma and Treichel, could possibly make the weight for the 130s, but are being shifted to strengthen the varsity prospects.

This policy has been adopted for all sports at Sequoia and has been in use in varsity baseball, swimming and football with noticeable improvement in the caliber of teams. For some time Palo Alto and San Mateo high schools have used lightweight players on unlimited teams.

It remains, then, that Coach Ray Dimick has little in the way of first class material for the Sequoia 130s this year. He will probably start Swanson and Baxter at forwards, Baughn at center, and Pommes and Shine at guards.

Seventeen men remain on the varsity squad this week, with three to be cut during the next few days. Those named for varsity uniforms are George Rhoda, John Costa, Leo LeRoy, Bill Lewis, Elbert Garcia, Salvador Demma, Jim McGuire, Jens Bugge, Carl Thimler, Louis Treichel, Roy McQuilkin, Jim Rhoda and Ed Abbott.

Tonight's varsity starting lineups:

SEQUOIA		LOWELL
McGuire	F	Conroy
Blasdel	F	Carney
Garcia	C	Hay
Bugge	G	Comba
Matheson	G	Erlenheim

TRAVEL HAMPERED BY MOUNTAIN SNOW

The Humboldt road from Chico to Lake Almanor is open and in good condition to West Branch, but is closed by snow beyond that point. The Humbug road is open to about three miles east of Stirling City and is then blocked by snow.

The Auburn road, U. S. 40, continues to be open and in good shape all the way from Sacramento to Truckee and Reno. The use of tire chains is advisable.

The Placerville road, U. S. 50, is not advisable beyond Fred's Place, because of snow. The road is in good condition through Placerville to that point.

Travel on both the Victory highway, U. S. 40, and Lincoln highway, U. S. 50, is going through without difficulty between Reno and Salt Lake City, despite recent storms.

The old Trinity highway between Red Bluff and Eureka is not an advisable route at present because of recent storms. There are numerous ruts and steep grades and several crossings of Salt Creek that are not in good condition.

Practically impassable conditions prevail now on the direct road from Willits to Fort Bragg. A good route to the coast is provided by the Navarro River road, leaving the Redwood highway, U. S. 101, at Mountain House.

Work is in progress near Livermore on the main route between Oakland and Stockton. Motorists are advised to use the paved road through Livermore and thus avoid the section under construction. The remainder of the route is in excellent condition.

The Lassen Volcanic highway from Red Bluff to Susanville remains open and in good condition. The road is free of snow, but use of tire chains is advisable.

AFTER 40 YEARS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—For the first time in 40 years the path of two boyhood chums crossed here. The "boys," now well along in years, are Gen. Manus McCloskey, veteran of two wars, and A. W. Young, local banker. They were brought up in Pittsburgh, Pa., together. They separated in 1891.

Holes in cheese are caused by the activity of gas-producing bacteria. The gas catches in the rubbery cheese and makes holes in it just as the gas from yeast makes holes in bread.

FAVOR IS SHOWN FOR 'PALO ALTO' DIRIGIBLE NAME

President Wendell C. Thomas of Santa Clara County Consolidated announced at the Mountain View meeting of that organization Tuesday noon that letters promising co-operation in the movement to have the dirigible ZRS5 named "Palo Alto" had been received from the various congressmen and senators of the California delegation. Letters promising to give consideration to the matter had also been received, he said, from the White House, Secretary of the Navy Adams and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur.

Considerable attention was given the matter of taking care of automobile traffic at the Sunnyvale base in March when the dirigible "Akron" is expected from the East. It was pointed out that traffic congestion at this time at this point would probably be greater than for any event now on record in the West. Manager J. M. Silvey of the San Jose Chamber of Commerce stated that city, county and state officials were frankly worried over the project of working out a parking plan adequate to handle the needs of the occasion. Mountain View stated it was hoped that Moffett Boulevard would be opened by that time, and that a circle road was now contemplated at the naval base which would greatly facilitate the handling of traffic.

A resolution was adopted supporting the movement initiated by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce to bring the Pacific Coast fleet to San Francisco as a part time base.

The January meeting, which probably will be held at Morgan Hill, will be marked by the annual election of officers. President Thomas appointed the following nominating committee: Chairman D. A. Mendenhall of Palo Alto, Roger Sherman of Mountain View and Leo Vishoot of Sunnyvale. The nominating committee met subsequently and re-nominated the present officers: Wendell C. Thomas of San Jose, president; Walter J. Doust of Mountain View, vice president; C. C. Spalding of Sunnyvale, treasurer; Charles H. Roberts of Palo Alto, secretary.

Card Frosh Basket Prospects Good

Under the direction of Freshman Coach Vance Fawcett, about 40 players are working out daily at Stanford for places on the yearling cage team.

Coach Fawcett reports that there are a number of promising men on the squad, and that the outlook for a strong freshman team is especially good.

Elected to Ram's Head—Election of five men to Ram's Head, men's honorary dramatic society at Stanford, was announced Thursday. The new members are Carl Cartwright, John Redhead, Don Cameron, Robert Baxter, Larry Harris and Darrell Ross.

United Press Presents All-Coast Grid Selections

Eleven outstanding Pacific coast football players who took part in an outstanding season make up the United Press all-coast first team for 1931. The players as numbered are: (1) Gaius "Gus" Shaver, U.S.C., quarterback; (2) Paul Schwegler, Washington, left tackle; (3) Ralston "Rusty" Gill, California, fullback; (4) Ralph Stone, California, right end; (5) Bill Fischer, St. Mary's, right guard; (6) Bill Morgan, Oregon, right tackle; (7) Francis "Bud" Toscani, St. Mary's, left halfback; (8) Ernie Pinckert, U.S.C., right halfback; (9) Stanley Williamson, U.S.C., center; (10) John Baker, U.S.C., left guard; (11) Ray Sparling, U.S.C., left end. As the champion team, it was natural that U.S.C. had more men selected than the others. California and St. Mary's were next with two each.

Prep Water Polo Seven Defeated By Athens Club Team

After leading the powerful Athens Club water polo team by a score of 1 to 0 at half time, the Sequoia seven tired in the second half before an attack led by Pederson, veteran Athens Club center back, and dropped its opening practice game of the season by a score of 5 to 2.

Jim Adams, center back, scored the lone goal of the first half when Sequoia took to the offensive, and Ellertson, newly discovered forward, contributed the second in the final period. Pederson, the mainstay who helped his team defeat the Cherokees in the national junior championships last spring, was again the scoring ace for the East bay team.

Coach Jim Eva was satisfied with his team's performance, figuring that another week or two of conditioning will bring the squad into shape for Peninsula Water Polo League competition in January.

Woodside

One expects freedom from fires under conditions of reduced fire hazard such as we have been enjoying of late, but the Woodside Fire Department has had its work to do notwithstanding the dampness of the atmosphere. Early Thanksgiving morning the alarm called the firemen from their beds to battle a fire that consumed the garage and chauffeur's quarters and threatened the home and other buildings at the August Schilling estate, and on Tuesday night they were called to the Skyline Boulevard to fight a fire that burned over about 20 acres of grass and brush land.

The Thanksgiving holidays saw many family re-unions in Woodside. James Huddart and his sister, Miss May Huddart, entertained a party of 12 family members, mostly from Berkeley, the family home, at their beautiful place in the hills. Joseph H. Hallett had a family party of 15 at his dinner table on Thanksgiving evening.

John Volpiano, assistant fire chief of the Woodside department, has been ill at his home for the past month with typhoid fever but is on the road to recovery and is expected back at the fire house within the next few weeks.

The Parent-Teacher Association will hold a combination card party and apron sale on the evening of December 11, at the school auditorium. There will be no charge for admission, but score cards for those who want to take a hand at whist, together with refreshments, will cost 35 cents. Each of the several prizes will be in the form of a sack of household necessities, including a sack of potatoes, a sack of sugar, a sack of miscellaneous groceries, and even a sack of coal. The aprons to be sold are all the product of home labor.

The Portola Social Club held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening with a large attendance present. Refreshments were served after the business of the meeting had been completed.

E. L. Beck will spend the coming week-end at Maxwell and expects to return with the legal limit of geese and ducks.

Miss Edith Chamberlain has just returned from an extended journey through Europe in company with her uncle, Joseph Chamberlain.

The Woodside Girl Scouts attended the Court of Awards at McKinley school on Monday evening and four of them received merit badges. Priscilla Jarvis, Grace Winkler, Marian Newman and Barbara Newman received their awards for first aid work and Marion and Barbara Newman gained other awards for attainments in music.

The Parent-Teacher Association met in their regular monthly session on Thursday. Mrs. Beach was the speaker of the day.

Dr. Hall To Sail For Japan December 5

In his last talk at the Congregational church Monday night, Dr. Hall dwelt upon general topics, incidences of work done in the Orient from the missionary's point of view, and relating a number of his own experiences.

On Tuesday, December 1, a new series of eight card parties for the Mt. Carmel new school fund began. Mrs. aDniel Flynn was chairman.

High score was held by Mrs. S. Oakman. Others holding winning scores were, Mesdames Holden, Stoll, Stafford, Mortensen, Brasch, Hahir, Long, Lutje, Sahlberg, Roettger, Boro, Reynolds, Fromm, Tuttle, Gillard, Locatelli, McNalty, Peterson, J. Ryan, Swift, Curran, Granger, Edmonds, Jamieson, Gilberg, Shearer, Roszell, Stickle, and Palmer. Door prizes were won by Mesdames Hellar, Lutje, Eads, and Fowler.

On account of the Fair which begins Thursday, December 10, the second card party of this series will be held on December 15. Mrs. Mamie Glennan will be in charge.

Friendly Indians Divide Into Two "Villages"

The Sioux Friendly Indian tribe, which is under the younger boy program of the Young Men's Christian Association, at a meeting at Lincoln school Monday was divided into two villages under the supervision of "big chiefs' John Argo and Billy Dusel. This was done so that the boys might have intra-tribe competition. Both groups will meet at the same time but in different rooms. Each village will have a complete set of officers so that the various ceremonies can be put on and all activities carried through without reference to the other village group.

The big chiefs held a council with Roy A. Hohberger immediately following the meeting and set up a competitive system. Plans are to give one point for each member present, and in the event that all are present, double the number of points. Points will also be given for new members, tokens won, and games won.

This club enrolls forty-six members.

CHAPTER 65

What Does This Mean?

For three successive afternoons Harry had gone to the Villa Mora to take Sheila for a drive. Each time she was not in. Carlo smilingly informed him that she had gone out with the young doctor.

On the third afternoon, Sheila's absence made Harry angry, and he mentioned the fact to Bellefonte when he met him at the club. The Count smiled.

"I haven't seen her today," he said. "By the way, is Dr. Baxter still at your hotel? Hmm. I have sometimes seen him at a pension, where I visit a friend who has known better days. Once he was with a young lady—very attractive, I would say."

Harry went back to his hotel. Tea was being served on the terrance and a dansant was in progress. He took a table in an obscure corner and watched the dancers. Suddenly Sheila and Dr. Mac whirled past him. He started up, but they didn't see him, and he sat down again. They didn't see any one, for that matter. They had eyes only for each other. Harry went into the lobby, where he wouldn't have to watch them. But he waited, hoping to have a moment's chat with Sheila later on.

The music stopped and the dancers were leaving the hotel. Harry saw Dr. Mac hurry Sheila into the roadster and take the wheel. He dashed into a taxi as they drove off and told the driver to follow them.

They entered a section that was strange to him and stopped before an old house. Sheila strolled about the garden while Dr. Mac went indoors. When he came out, she walked with him to the gate and waved to him as he hurried away. Then she entered the house, and Harry dismissed his taxi and waited in the shadow of the garden wall for her. He was not going to leave until she did.

It grew dark, and still he waited. Lights gleamed in the house and the shades were drawn. Passersby stared curiously, but Harry continued to wait. Finally he heard the front door creak and saw the figures of two girls in the lighted hallway. Then the door closed, and Sheila was running down the steps. Harry went to meet her.

"You darling," she exclaimed, peering at him in the dark, "you waited all this time! Why didn't you come in?"

"I almost did," said Harry grimly.

Sheila uttered a little scream. "Harry! What are you doing here?" she gasped.

"I might ask you the same question," he returned.

"You've been spying on me," she said indignantly.

"And why not? Whom did you see in that house?"

"An old friend."

"Any one I know?"

"You may know her. I believe you do."

"Then why don't you tell me who she is?"

Sheila was silent a moment. "Please give me a chance to get my breath," she complained. "You act as if I had committed a crime. I was doing nothing more terrible than calling on a friend who is ill. She is staying here, because it's quiet and she doesn't have to see a lot of people. Dr. Baxter is attending her, at my request. I'd tell you who she is, but she asked me not to say anything about her being here. Now are you satisfied?"

It was Harry's turn to be silent. Finally he said: "Whom did you expect to find waiting for you, when you came out to the car?"

"Why, no one, of course," she said easily. "But, when you spoke, I thought you were the doctor."

"And you are in the habit of calling him 'darling'?"

"Oh, Harry, don't be tiresome. I just happened to say that, because he has been so nice about taking care of—of this friend."

"I'd like to know who she is," he grumbled.

"You will, in time," she laughed. "And it will be a big surprise. Now drive me home, like a nice chap. I'm famished."

They arrived at the villa just in time for dinner, and Sheila urged Harry to stay. "Jean will be here this evening," she said. "He's a terrible bore. Stay and entertain me."

The Count arrived while Sheila was finishing her toilette. She came down just in time to hear him say to Harry: "Do you know an American girl named Allen?"

She felt her hands grow icy as she waited for Harry's answer. Of course, he would remember that name! And it's associations. What would he say?

"Allen? Allen?" he repeated, and she did not fail to catch the note of surprise and recognition in his voice. "Why—why—" Then he was silent.

"The name sticks in my memory," the Count went on, "But I can't connect it with the person."

"I'm afraid I can't help you," Sheila heard Harry say. But she knew that he remembered, and that the Count's question was raising a storm of doubt and suspicion in his mind.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.
